

Objectives

Develop an action plan to reduce the number of highway-rail crossing accidents and casualties while not impeding, but facilitating, the contribution potential of the highway and rail infrastructure on the Nation's economy. The plan must consider the need for, and the crossing safety implications of, high speed inter-city, intermodal freight and passenger service as well as single-city commuter and intra-urban service.