

DISCLAIMER

This compilation is intended to present the state of the law as of March, 1999. Every effort has been made to assure accuracy in the information contained in this book. However, due to the broad scope of this project and the fluid nature of state statutory and case law, the Federal Railroad Administration cannot guarantee complete accuracy of the material presented. This document is intended to provide a general overview of the subjects. For more detailed and up to-date information, the reader is encouraged to review the relevant state statutes and annotations directly.

A great deal of material has been covered in this book and during the process it is possible that something was omitted or misquoted. Any such omissions or misquotes or typing errors are those of the author and not the responsibility of the Department of Transportation or the Federal Railroad Administration.

The publishing of this compilation does not constitute the rendering of legal advice in any jurisdiction.

L. Stephen Jennings
Washington, D.C.