

Richard A. Ferlauto
Senior Safety Officer
MTA Long Island Rail Road (LIRR)

Mr. Ferlauto started his current 12 year career with the Long Island Rail Road in the Passenger Services Department as a Station Cleaner, working his way up to the Law Department as a Claim Agent. In 2003 Richard became a Safety Officer for the System Safety Department and then moved to his current position of Senior Safety Officer. Richard now oversees the Right of Way Task Force (ROWTF) a joint venture with the Metropolitan Transit Authority Police Department (MTAPD). The ROWTF monitors daily conditions along the right of way through the daily transportation log for any noted trespass reports, debris strikes, or other operational deviations. In areas of continuous reports, priority lists are created to best distribute any new installation of High Security fencing.
